GAME 4 OF 6 • LOW-VOLUME MODE

Quiet-Car Bingo

Find-it bingo for the low-energy hours. Point, mark, whisper. Nobody has to talk much.

How to play — the quietest game in the pack

- Parallel play: everyone has their own board, nobody races out loud and nobody shouts BINGO.
- See a thing, mark the box. A quiet point so others can spot it too is allowed and encouraged.
- Mark five in a row and hold up your board. The grown-up in the front seat gives a thumbs up. That's the whole celebration.
- Good for the hour before naps, the hour after migraine warnings, and any leg driven by someone with just enough patience for a thumbs up.

SHEET 1 — Daytime drive

Cow or horse in a field	Water tower	Rainbow of flowers in a yard
Rest stop sign	FREE Breathe	Bridge crossing over water
Barn-shaped anything	Kite or flag in a yard	Roadwork crew with cones out
Silo	Tailgate picnic setup you pass	Roadside garden with sunflowers

SHEET 2 — Almost-night drive

Headlights of the same car for a while	City glow on the horizon	Gas price sign glowing	Blinking tower light far away
Neon letters spelling something	FREE Breathe	Road sign lit up like a movie scene	Streetlight turning green as you pass
Birds on power lines at dusk	Truck with lights all around the cab	Trains passing on water	Gas station with lit-up canopies
Moon visible through a window	24-hour diner sign	Roadside light with fireflies	Last streetlight before dark road

Winner rules, whispered

First to a line picks the podcast. First to a full card picks the dinner stop. First to fall asleep wins the whole trip, technically.
